

Paula Irene Menzies DVM MPVM DipECSRHM
University Professor Emerita
Ruminant Health Management
Department Population Medicine
Ontario Veterinary College
University of Guelph
Guelph, Ontario CANADA

Paula Menzies has been involved in small ruminant health management for over four decades. She obtained her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine at the Ontario Veterinary College, and post graduate training at the University of Saskatchewan University of California - Davis. After spending a year in private practice in Nova Scotia, she returned to OVC, University of Guelph as a faculty member and as part of the Ruminant Field Service group. She is a Diplomate in the European College of Small Ruminant Health Management, is Secretary-Treasurer of the International Sheep Veterinary Association and is a Board Member of the International Goat Association, as well as serving as de facto member of the Canadian Small Ruminant Veterinarians / Veterinaries des Petits Ruminants du Canada. She is also a member of the Advisory Committee for the UN FAO-OIE Peste des Petits Ruminants Global Eradication Program, whose goal it is to eradicate this viral disease of sheep and goats from the world by 2030. She has won several awards for her role as a small ruminant veterinary practitioner and researcher in recent years and continues to serve on many committees and write research and continuing education articles on sheep and goat health. For further information, visit <https://ovc.uoguelph.ca/population-medicine/faculty/Paula-Menzies>